

Classroom Supplies Needed

Many local teachers provide classroom supplies at their own expense as budget cuts have steadily eroded supply budgets. And, while teachers could receive a tax credit for this in the past, this is no longer the case.

The Teacher's Aid Coalition was founded to help public school teachers provide students with the classroom supplies they need. Items such as photocopy paper, writing materials, felt pens, Kleenex, folders and other such common supplies are all needed. You may donate these items at Dr. Jon Hatakeyama's office, located at 370 W. Dunne Avenue, Suite 3, during normal business hours. The Coalition will begin distributing classroom supplies to teachers on October 21.
